AMP Capital Investors expands Property Portfolio Service with new portfolio manager

AMP Capital Investors today announced the appointment of Chris Davitt to the new position of Portfolio Manager for its Property Portfolio Service.

The AMP Capital Property Portfolio Service is a tailored property service offered to institutional clients. It comprises a team of property specialists who design, construct and manage property portfolios based on risk/return parameters as set by external clients.

Chris brings over 12 years of experience and property knowledge to the Property Portfolio Service, with his most recent role being Vice President for MGPA, a private equity real estate investment advisory firm based in London. His extensive experience includes four years investment experience in Europe and Asia with MGPA, analyst roles with two other major property groups and Adjunct Lecturer in the School of Banking and Finance at the University of New South Wales.

AMP Capital Investors Head of Property Portfolio Services Mark Flockhart said he was pleased to grow the team with such a well regarded individual.

“Chris has significant investment experience across the property sector and in several countries. His valuable knowledge and expertise will be integral in strengthening the service we offer to our clients, and we are excited he has joined the team.”

AMP Capital's Property Portfolio Service was established more than 15 years ago. Portfolios may include a range of products such as Australian and international direct property; listed property and development funds; Australian wholesale and offshore funds as well as emerging products under an 'alternative property' allocation.
