UniSuper's Terry McCredden awarded Fund Executive of the Year

UniSuper's Terry McCredden has been named the winner of the 10th Annual Fund Executive of the Year Award by the Fund Executives Association Limited (FEAL), in partnership with AMP Capital.

The prestigious award recognises outstanding leadership, innovation and achievement by a fund executive within the Australian superannuation industry.

The Fund Executive of the Year Award was presented at an event in Melbourne tonight and marked FEAL's 12th anniversary as an organisation dedicated to supporting the professional development of leaders in superannuation.

UniSuper's Chief Executive Officer Terry McCredden was selected for demonstrating exceptional leadership in the areas of advice, investment management and risk management, as well as fostering UniSuper's people and culture.

AMP Capital's Director of Client, Product & Marketing Brian Delaney said: "Terry has shown remarkable leadership in building UniSuper's in-house investment management capability to around $5 billion, and at the same time growing a very successful advice business.

"Terry's inclusive and transparent leadership style has seen him develop and attract strong talent, and under his guidance UniSuper is a strong participant in industry wide issues. He is a worthy winner of this prestigious award."

Mr McCredden was selected for the award by a panel of industry leaders and peers. As part of FEAL and AMP Capital's commitment to supporting professional development, Mr McCredden will receive a $20,000 education grant to study at an internationally recognised business school.

On winning the award, UniSuper CEO Terry McCredden said: "I am deeply honoured and humbled to win the 2011 Fund Executive of the Year award. To be recognised by my peers in this exciting and developing industry is truly gratifying. In particular, I am very pleased to be joining the company of previous winners of the award."

FEAL Chairman Neil Cochrane, who also chaired the award selection committee said: "Terry was an outstanding nomination from a field of remarkably high calibre candidates. Over many years Terry has been committed to inspiring his colleagues with his long term vision of serving members better and with his ability to implement wise strategies."
