

10 March 2010

Media release

AMP Capital boosts infrastructure capability with Asia Pacific appointment

AMP Capital Investors today named Boe Pahari as the new Head of Infrastructure Asia Pacific, further expanding its international infrastructure team.

The newly created role will support AMP Capital's continued expansion into Asia.

Global Head of Infrastructure Phil Garling said Mr Pahari will lead a diverse team of investment professionals in Sydney, Mumbai, Singapore and Beijing with a brief to further expand investment activities in Australia and the Asia Pacific.

"Boe brings a wealth of experience to the AMP Capital infrastructure team and will form an integral part in leading our expansion efforts in Australasia and Asia," Mr Garling said.

"Importantly Boe's focus will be on ensuring we provide superior investment performance and we continue to add value for our clients," Mr Garling concluded.

"I look forward to joining a remarkable Asia Pacific platform with an iconic Australian organisation and creating exciting infrastructure growth opportunities for our global investors," Mr Pahari said.

Mr Pahari has over 20 years experience in the financial services industry. He started his career at Citigroup in Sydney and subsequently worked for more than 13 years with ABN AMRO based in Singapore, Amsterdam, New York and London. During this period Mr Pahari worked in regional and global positions including Regional CFO Asia Pacific, Head of Infrastructure Capital Americas, Global Head of Integrated Finance/Infrastructure Capital and Global Head Structured Capital.

Having led Principal and Advisory teams across Asia, Europe and North America Mr Pahari has been involved with the creation and development of a number of businesses in ABN AMRO. Mr Pahari is currently based in London and has been leading Foreshore Global Capital.

Mr Pahari is admitted as a Solicitor in Sydney and holds a Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Law from the University of New South Wales and Master of Laws in International Business and Tax from the University of Sydney.

Mr Pahari commences with AMP Capital on Monday 22 March.

AMP Capital Investors has been investing in Asian infrastructure since 1994, and is one of the longest-standing participants in infrastructure investment. It now manages in excess of $96.9 billion in funds under management with more than $4.4 billion invested in infrastructure investments in Australia, New Zealand, Asia and Europe as at 31 December 2009.

Media enquiries

Emily Ritchie

T +61 2 9257 5615

M +61 407 287 256

E emily.ritchie@ampcapital.com